The early history of Kumihimo is difficult to study due to the perishable nature of braid materials and the secrecy of braiding techniques. Braid patterns were not published until about 400 years ago. Throughout Japanese history Kumihimo braids have been used in many ways. Buddhism brought braiding to Japan and was used to clothing and ceremonies.

curved on the other. It has an interesting chevron design on one side which can be picked out with different colours. It curves well and therefore works very well as a necklace. Hollow Braid - This type of kumihimo is another round style, but the braid does not spiral in the way that a Round Braid does. A hollow core develops in the middle, through which wire or other cords can be threaded.
